

THE FOREST FIRES ARE UNDER CONTROL

Work of Checking Up Death List is Under Way.

WIDE COUNTRY IS DEVASTATED

The Number of Fatalities Will Reach 500—Millions of Feet of Standing Timber Burned—The Property Loss Will Be $10,000,000.

United Press Telegram.
COBALT, Ontario, July 14.—With the fires in northern Ontario under control, the government is today devoting all of its attention to alleviating the suffering of the survivors, and the recovery of bodies from the devastated district.

The death list will exceed 500, according to information received by the officials in charge of the work. The survivors are suffering from hunger, and supplies are being rushed forward from many points.

Advices from Sillwood say that all along the Canadian Northern line from Sunbury to Sillwood millions of feet of standing timber was burned. In the official list of dead at Porcupine as a result of the forest fires are the following:

Charles E. Adams, Phoenixville, Pa., aged 23 years; Matthew Haas, Spokane, Wash., 35; Henry Jackson, colored, 60; Duta Mon, his wife and child; William King, Boise, Idaho.

DETROIT, Mich., July 14.—Seven known dead, scores still missing, a property loss of over $10,000,000 and an area of 1,000 square miles devastated is today the toll of the Michigan forest fires for three days.

Many fires are still burning, but on the whole, the situation is much improved and unless the high winds return, it is believed the danger is over.

Kear Tawas, on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, at present the home of several hundred refugees from Oude and Au Sable, is today reported to be in grave danger, with forest fires burning six miles away, and preparations are being hurriedly made to fight the flames.

According to reports, the only really dangerous fires remaining today are on Presque Isle, in Shoboygan county, at the extreme upper end of the lower peninsula.

The Trusts Seek Dr. Wiley's Scalp

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14.—That the whiskey trust, the Standard Oil trust, the glucose manufacturers and the vendors of soft drinks are the real forces behind the move to depose Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief chemist, through departmental intrigue, was the authoritative information secured by Democratic members of the House today.

An immediate investigation was decided upon by Chairman Moses, Democrat, of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Department of Justice, and the committee will begin its probe this afternoon. Dr. Wiley would not contradict the statement that certain officials of the Department of Agriculture have been attempting to undermine him and nullify his work. It is predicted that a "scandal" of the Ballinger-Placer type will be brought to light.

No Sunday Ice Delivery.
The Crystal Ice Company will make no delivery of ice next Sunday. It is the intention to deliver all extra quantity tomorrow, which with the prevailing cool weather, will tide consumers over.

Afro-American Day.
July 17 will be Afro-American Day at Shady Grove.

Double Header Arrives at Home Of Engineer Bill Cox of Scottdale.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Pa., July 14.—Should you be standing on the corner, speculating on the return of the hot wave, and some one stops up behind and gives you a gentle tap between the shoulders that knocks your hat off and causes your temperature to go up toward the hundred mark, at the same time shouting, "I'm it," it would be necessary for you to turn around to see who "it" is. It will be Bill Cox, the popular P. R. R. engineer, and there's a reason for his action.

Wednesday night Bill's family was increased 20 per cent by the arrival of twin boys, and Bill's present opinion of "it" is hard to estimate. He says he knew there would be a boy, but wasn't counting on a "double header."

What names to bestow upon the twins is puzzling papa. Some of his railroad friends have suggested "Pull" and "Push," Bill rather likes these names, but is undecided, and seems in favor of something like "Peter" and "Paul." He is giving the matter careful consideration, and says that no matter what names are finally selected, there will be two "P's."

Sell Livery Stable.
C. B. and W. H. Wiley have sold their livery and feed stable at Uniontown to J. Rosenfeld for $3,300.

BACK TO COUNTY JAIL INSTEAD OF TO HIS WIFE.

Louis Onsbury's Plea Cut No Figure With Spouse Until He Furnishes a Bond That He Will Keep Promise.

Louis Onsbury, who was arrested and has been in the county jail since May 14 pending a hearing before Squire Robert McLaughlin of Dunbar township on a charge of non-support, was taken from Uniontown this morning to the office of Squire Robert McLaughlin and given a hearing. The information was made by his wife, Mrs. Onsbury, who at the time of her husband's arrest was too ill to appear against him. Onsbury deserted his wife on Decoration Day and for sometime she was so ill that it was feared she wouldn't recover. Her condition was due to neglect. Her husband suddenly disappeared and for several weeks she was in a very destitute condition. Her infant child was also in a serious condition.

Lator Mrs. Onsbury was removed to the Cottage State hospital where she was given the best of care and her condition began to improve a few weeks after being admitted to the hospital she was able to leave the institution.

This morning she appeared against her husband. Onsbury was anxious to make peace with his wife and made all kinds of promises if she would only live with him again. Fearing that he would desert her again Mrs. Onsbury requested that he furnish a bond of $500 that he wouldn't desert her the second time. Being unable to furnish the amount, he was taken to Uniontown again by Constable William Roland of Dunbar township, who made the arrest, and was committed to jail.

Summer Boarders to Learn Dancing

Special to The Courier.
OHIOVILLE, July 14.—After many unavoidable delays, the dancing classes will begin this evening at the Farnell pavilion. The beginning of the dancing class has been awaited with keen anticipation by the Ohioville young folks and already a formidable list of beginners has enrolled for the initial lesson.

The lessons were to have commenced last week but a delay was occasioned by the failure of the new baby grand piano to arrive.

The dancing class has been promoted, after much persuasion and importuning on the part of those who would court the muse of Terpsichore, by Charles B. Fox of the Farnell and E. R. Bender, the well known salesman of Confidence. Mr. Bender has, in a fashion, been looking after the interests of the Pittsburgh dancing master, who is to take charge of the dancing pupils.

The fact that the dancing class will not start until 8 o'clock this evening makes unnecessary an early closing campaign in Ohioville.

Unidentified Man Killed on B. & O.

An unidentified man, supposed to be an employee of the Western Maryland railroad, was struck and instantly killed at the B. & O. depot at Rockwood by an east bound freight last evening. The man was walking on the track and evidently did not hear the train approaching.

He was thrown quite a distance from the track. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Joseph Snyder and prepared for burial.

The point where the accident occurred is acquiring a gruesome reputation, as this is the third man whose life has been snuffed out within the past two days.

WANTS MORE GROUND.

Steel Corporation Securing Options in Duquesne.
It became known yesterday that the United States Steel interests have taken options on several properties in the northeastern section of the First Ward, Duquesne. It is said the property wanted is bounded on one side by Hill street and on the other by River avenue. A real estate agent is securing the options and in some cases the property is being bought outright. What improvements are in contemplation is not stated. The plot of ground would be in negotiation is not large enough to erect mills of great size, but it is understood the property is wanted to give truck room for the Union railroad.

Tracks Washed Out.
The severe rain of the past week have washed out the track of the Pittsburgh, Westmoreland and Somerset railroad at several points, between Ligontier and Somerset.

ASK FOR PARDON FOR MRS. NAPOLITANO

The W. C. T. U. at Ohioville Takes Action in Case.

ATTRACTING WORLD INTEREST

Officers Were Elected at the Session Held Yesterday Afternoon—Narcotic Chart Purchased by the Union Program That Was Followed.

At the fifth semi-annual district No. 3 Institute of the Fayette county W. C. T. U. held yesterday in the Methodist Episcopal church at Ohioville, a petition to be sent the Governor of Ontario asking for the pardon of Angelina Napolitano, who is sentenced to be hanged at Sault Ste Marie for the murder of her husband, was drawn up and signed by the women present.

The following officers for the coming year were elected: President, Mrs. Nellie H. Showman of Connellsville; Vice President, Mrs. L. S. Michael; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Arthur Glofferty; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. N. B. Miller of Dunbar; Treasurer, Mrs. Sue Colborn of Mill Run; Mrs. Showman was re-elected.

In behalf of the women Mrs. Showman presented the public schools of Ohioville with a picture of Frances E. Willard. The union has purchased an Anti-Narcotic chart, and when not in use at conventions the chart will be placed for a certain length of time in the public schools of the district. The chart is entitled "Closed Doors," representing the business houses closed to young men who are addicted to drink and cigarette smoking. L. S. Michael gave a very interesting talk on the subject.

Several changes were made in the program. In the morning Mrs. Mary E. Williams had charge of the devotional exercises instead of Mrs. E. S. Jackson. Last evening a medical temperance demonstration was given by six young ladies. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. J. W. Chuck, while instructive talks were given by Mrs. Kate Rittenour, the county president, and Mrs. L. S. Michael.

Readings were given by Mrs. Michael and Miss Naomi Wynn. The judges were Lella Colborn and Hazel Thorpe. The next meeting will be held sometime in mid-winter at South Connellsville. Among those present from Mill Run were Mrs. Mary E. Hutchinson and daughter, Miss Agnes E. Hutchinson; Mrs. Katherine Wilson and Mrs. Krepps.

Charge Dismissed Against Clyde Young

John Miller, Jr., a resident of Swagertown, Hill, yesterday made information before Squire Sullivan against Clyde Young, also of the hill district, charging him with furnishing liquor to his son, John. Both are boys about 19 years of age.

Constable Rottler was given the warrant, and when he went to serve it was denied admittance to the Young house. Rottler, however, was persistent, and finally got in through a window. Young was found in an upstairs room and placed under arrest.

At the hearing Young was discharged. It appears the young fellow in some manner had secured a keg of beer and a quart of whiskey and had proceeded to indulge in a friendly drinking bout.

Lightning Cleaves Off a Church Spire

For the past three or four days, Rockwood and vicinity have been visited by the severest electrical storms ever experienced in this locality. Every day, and sometimes oftener, the heavens become overcast and the lightning begins to play its pranks, much to the discomfort of the timid and nervous.

Yesterday there was a particularly severe storm. At Sinner, near here, the spire of the Lutheran church was struck and clipped off as smooth as though done by a monster cleaver. The weather boarding was stripped off one side of the church, but the steeple was not seriously damaged.

EXTENSION OF B. & O. INTO GREENE COUNTY.

Rumors That Old Wheeling Line Now Built as Far as Elm Grove Will Be Built Across Monongahela River.

A rumor is current, started by a visit of Baltimore & Ohio officials over the branch of the Baltimore & Ohio to Elm Grove, that plans are under consideration for an extension of the old Wheeling line projected a number of years ago and on which considerable work was done. The proposed extension at this time, according to report, is for the purpose of tapping the Greene county coal field. Both the Pennsylvania and Lake Erie, through their connections on the Monongahela river, are in a position to get into the Greene county field just as soon as operation on a large scale starts. In fact the Pennsylvania railroad already has a branch into Greene county.

A branch of the Baltimore & Ohio into Greene county would give Greene

Medico Social Club Hold July Meeting

All members of the Young Medico Social Club were present at the July meeting held last evening at the home of Dr. H. J. Coll on West Apple street. Last evening was the first for some time that it was possible for all the doctors to be present at the regular monthly meeting. There were no guests of the club. The earlier part of the evening was devoted to the business meeting, which was held on the upper porch. It was decided to hold an outing of the doctors about the middle of August at Killbuck park. There was no special subject for discussion, a number of the doctors speaking on diseases prevalent at this time of the year. The talks were interesting and of great benefit to the doctors.

Following the business meeting the doctors adjourned to the large lower porch, where a well appointed luncheon, such as appeals to one's appetite in the summer, was served from one long table extending almost the entire length of the porch. Bouquets of flowers were placed at intervals on the table. The porch was enclosed with awnings and screens and was attractively decorated in the national colors red, white and blue, several large flags being artistically draped on the awnings and screens. The meeting was the best held for some time. After partaking of the lunch the doctors adjourned to the upper porch where a delightful social hour was spent. The next meeting will be held on the first Thursday evening in August at the home of Dr. G. W. Gallagher.

Newspaper Men West Penn Guests

Newspaper men to the number of 50 passed through Connellsville this morning at 11:30 on board West Penn car No. 700, one of the slide entrance type.

The West Penn Railway Company is having host today to the Westmoreland Editorial Association. Of these there were in the neighborhood of 40. In addition, there were a dozen representatives of the Pittsburgh dailies, including Col. W. C. Connelly, manager of the Associated Press in the Smoky City. Bob Herbert of the Greensburg Tribune, is master of ceremonies.

The party will take lunch at Uniontown, and return to Connellsville this afternoon where a visit will be made to the West Penn power house, and other points of interest. The trip will then be continued to Oakford park, where supper will be served and the evening spent in dancing.

Cemetery Deeded to Polish Church

Holy Trinity Polish Roman Catholic Church in the West Side has come into possession of a tract of five acres of land in Connellsville township. It came as a gift to the congregation through the good offices of President Thomas Lynch of the H. C. C. Truck Company and the generosity of the Carnegie Land Company.

The site adjoins Poplar Grove plan of lots, just north of Connellsville and is located on the Northwest corner of the old Buttermore farm.

Under the direction of the pastor the grounds are being fenced. A crucifix was erected today near the center of the tract. The cemetery will likely be dedicated in October.

Darkness Prevails at Mountain Resort

Special to The Courier.
OHIOVILLE, July 14.—The severe electrical storm of Wednesday evening resulted in a portion of Ohioville being in darkness throughout the entire night.

The lightning put out of commission the lights west of the river. Both hotels, the depot, Ohioville company's store and other dwellings were forced to use lamps and candles for illuminating purposes.

Breweries May Sell Their Ice

Judge S. J. McCarroll of the Dauphin county court yesterday handed down an opinion in the action brought by the State against the Independent, Pittsburg, Star and Victor brewing companies, of Western Pennsylvania, to restrain them from the manufacture and sale of ice. It was contended that such business was in violation of charter rights.

The court holds that ice is a necessary adjunct to the manufacture of malt and brewed liquors and that the companies may manufacture and supply enough to keep their "brewing plant" going. They may also sell the excess provided the excess ice has not been purposely created in order to engage in the business of selling ice.

A MOONLIGHT PICNIC

Picture Show Opens in Morgan Valley; The Natives Are Going Back to Nature.

Morgan has a five cent moving picture show. James Farr, the photographer, has secured a calcium light machine, of the improved type, and is holding entertainments each evening in the Adella hall on the road leading to Dry Hill. There are two reels of films run each evening.

The films are of the Pathé Flores people which have gained such wide renown in the moving picture world. Later in the season it is the intention to put on vaudeville.

It may be true that the Morgan valley has not many coke ovens left, but there is no sign of depopulation in the valley. The Morgan valley, in fact, is going back to nature. On the hillsides, where a few years ago the coke smoke had shrouded up every thing that grows, thriving once black and barren, gardens and little truck farms are now springing up. Nearly every family from Tintaman station down own their own home and on Dry Hill and Germany Hill adjacent to Broad Ford and Morgan, chicken farms and truck gardens are successful and flourishing. The Morgan valley is the first example, and convincing evidence, that at some future day the population of the coke region will to a large extent fall back on the soil for their sustenance and support.

This Will Create the Most Terrific Sensation Connellsville Has Experienced!

We Bought the Entire Stock of M. H. Feldstein & Co. and will Place It on Sale at the Same Price We Paid—33c on the Dollar.

SALE STARTS SATURDAY, JULY 15th

We have just consummated one of the greatest deals ever put through in this town. We purchased at one clip the entire high grade stock of M. H. Feldstein & Co. at 33 cents on the dollar or just exactly one-third of the regular prices. We got their stock at this ridiculously low price because M. H. Feldstein & Co., did not want to offer any of their stock after opening their new store and when we made them an offer they accepted it immediately. When you consider that we must turn over this store to The Feldstein-Levine Co., the new owners, by July 25th. you will understand how imperative it is that we dispose of this stock before that date, for if we don't we shall have to move the remaining merchandise to our city warehouse—a gigantic and costly task which we would rather not undertake to do. Therefore you will clearly see that every dollar's worth of merchandise now in this store must be sold and will be sold regardless of loss.

We are ignoring profits, costs and regular prices—we would rather lose money now and clear out the whole stock than lose money later by being forced to remove the unsold stock to our city warehouse. M. H. Feldstein & Co., carried one of the finest stocks of merchandise in this town and their store was known to everybody in Connellsville and vicinity.

Combined with M. H. Feldstein & Co.'s stock is our own large stocks of Men's Clothing, Dry Goods and Shoes making in all thousands of Dollars worth of high grade merchandise to be sold at less than manufacturers' cost.

This sale is bound to create a furore in Connellsville for its the most astounding price-smashing sale ever seen in this town. The greatest bargain sales of previous years fade into pale insignificance in comparison with this monster event. Just think of it! You can buy $3.00 worth of merchandise and more in this sale for $1. Merchandise that is reliable, high grade and just the kind you need now and will need for many months to come. We also take great pleasure in announcing that M. H. Feldstein of M. H. Feldstein & Co., will personally assist us in this sale. This sale will be held at the store formerly occupied by Mace & Co. Sale starts Saturday, July 15th. Here are examples of the sensational values.

THE SHERIFF'S DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES.

In line with what The Courier said yesterday concerning the duties and responsibilities of the Sheriff, the Uniontown Standard observes:

There was a report made to the Sheriff that they have seen Frank Smith in a certain locality when they have not, not only do the Sheriff's men, but themselves and the community as well. Smith is said to have been captured by the Sheriff's men. It is believed that John Smith endures the life on any one, and a reward is necessary to his capture, such reward should be offered by the Sheriff instead of by the county. He was placed in the hands of the Sheriff for safe keeping, in court, and having let him escape, it is plain that it rests with the Sheriff to capture him.

There is a precedent for such duty and action on the part of the Sheriff. When K. L. Brock was Sheriff, a pickpocket escaped from the jail by concealing himself behind the door and eluding the watchful eye of the jail attendant. Sheriff Brock considered himself responsible for the act of his employee, and succeeded in capturing the culprit. The Sheriff is responsible for the act, and it is his duty to recapture and restore such prisoner at his own cost and expense.

On the other hand, if the Sheriff and his deputies have exercised a reasonable vigilance in guarding the jail; and that, notwithstanding, there is, through abnormal cunning, unexpected outside contrivance, or insufficient locks and bars, a jail delivery, it is plain that it is the duty of the County Commissioners to offer such rewards as may seem fit and proper, and by every other possible and proper means to aid the Sheriff in his efforts to capture the escaped prisoners.

The case under consideration is peculiar. Frank Smith murdered his father and his brother-in-law in a matter of race commonly understood to be due primarily to his resentment to the proposed marriage of his parent a second time, with the concomitant possibility of other heirs to share in his father's estate. He was tried and found not guilty on account of insanity.

Popular sentiment is very much divided as to the justice of that verdict; and, if the letters which Smith seems to have written to the Uniontown Standard are genuine, the public belief in his sanity will be greatly strengthened. The letters give no evidences of an unbalanced mind; on the contrary, they betray an active intelligence.

Public sentiment is also much divided as to the manner of Smith's escape. He has some property and some prospects, and it is generally felt that his escape involves some considerations. Such insinuations are highly improper. Sheriff Johns and his deputies are entitled to the benefit of all doubts, and it is not just to convict him or them on mere supposition.

The Sheriff seems to be making every effort to apprehend Smith, and we must assume that his efforts are being made in good faith; but we must also conclude, as we have stated before, that the heat and burden of the chase is upon him.

THE POLITICS OF THE WESTMORELAND MINE STRIKE.

The Westmoreland mining strike, which has failed so miserably, has been charged to the machinations of certain labor leaders seeking personal profit at the hands of rival coal operators desiring the eastern business of the Westmoreland operators. The Greensburg Tribune openly charges another and even more unworthy motive. It says that the strike was inaugurated and the miners invited into joining the union for the purpose of increasing the voting strength of the anti-Lewis forces in the national convention of the United Mine Workers. The Tribune says in this connection:

The strike of the Westmoreland miners was a deliberate and a malicious conspiracy. It was not designed to advance the interest of the workers. It was forced as a galling burden upon men who had not known grievances and who had not a part of the political battle game worked out, tried to steal the market from the local operators and, finally, to prevent the reelection of Hiram Town. President of the national organization of miners and mine workers, sanguine but unscrupulous capital, envious of the success enjoyed by the Westmoreland operators, was enticed and played a leading part in the desperate game. John Mitchell, former President of the national organization, who hated the Westmoreland operators as his cunning and daring crimes bade sunlight, was the master mechanic of the whole lot. He bought and paid for the strike. He was President of the Pittsburgh district miners, a willing and useful tool. Abundantly financed and in dubious ways Mitchell and French, blatted with their foreign estimate of their American importance, came upon the Westmoreland miners as a pestilence. They made no complaint against the conditions there. They needed union votes to work out their plans and they absolutely forced miners into their organization under the threat of their "scab" iron. They sought no conference with the operators and they even refused to allow their dupes to know the purpose or cause of the strike. The contented and satisfied miners and their generous employers were alike kept in ignorance. The strike, or more properly the disaster, was nearly a year old before any operator in the Westmoreland field had knowledge of the pretended cause for it. Mitchell paid was one of the alleged causes for the industrial disturbance. The suspicion that the operators were making more than their just share of profits was given as another.

The two charges, both as false as both Mitchell and French have been to their deluded and deceived followers, were thoroughly investigated by the editor of The Tribune. The books of every concern involved in the strike were opened and carefully examined. The findings were given to the public and those findings disclosed that in many places the miners, who were charged into striking, were paid better than the preachers and doctors of this community. Neither Mitchell nor French attempted to make reply to the convincing figures when published. They had other and larger fish to fry. They needed union votes and their financial agents needed the Westmoreland market. That was where their concern for the Westmoreland miners began and ended.

It is difficult to believe that John Mitchell would lend himself to so foul a trick, especially in view of the fact that his relations with the United Mine Workers are now nominal. But The Tribune speaks with positiveness, and until its claims are controverted they are entitled to credence, especially in view of the fact that though often repeated in one form or another they have not yet been denied, but on the contrary officers of the Pittsburgh district have voluntarily given corroborative evidence of the fact that the Westmoreland strike was neither proper nor wise.

The charges against a local butcher for keeping an unclean and unsanitary cellar are met with the explanation that the unpleasant odor was due to a broken sewer. There is no use disputing as to the cause. It is the fact which is sought to be remedied. Food products of all kinds should be kept free from the menacing contamination of bad cellars, and for that matter cellars should be kept in a sanitary condition.

The fellow who looks like Frank Smith is just now receiving a great deal of undesirable attention.

A Pittsburgh bartender declares he saw Smith there, and letters purporting to be written by Smith have been mailed from Denver, Colorado. Frank seems to be working down stream.

The Tri-State telephone company is not at all new. It is being brought out, extending its services and trying to better it. The people wish it well because it is the telephone company that does the better country people free services within the county and consequently much cheaper service to most of their patrons than the Bell company gives.

Hobble Skirt Trouble.

By Isaac of Yukon.

Miss Lullaby McWhadden wore her hobble skirt to town. It was a lovely skirt of a style straight up and down. Like a small selected party in a wild unsettled state. The dress that Lullaby wore was mighty wide and great.

Old Squire Elngville Bugle came walking down the street. Miss Lullaby stood on the curb looking awful sweet. Old Squire looked and looked and took a faltering step. While the ladies and the boozers heaved a rather lusty yell.

Miss Lullaby stomped then, and Elngville called the show. The greatest freak of folly that was ever left to grow. Miss Lullaby now sits at home a-wEEPING in distress. And the people all are talking about her classy dress.

The old town council passed a law and made it very plain. That hobble skirts and Lullaby must not break out again. They all agreed that hobble girls should buy a license tag. And wear it on the hobble skirt as a sort of danger flag.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Efforts now under way to make the National Capital a "noiseless city" have been given an impetus by the international Commerce Commission through an order signed recently requiring two electric railroads to take from service all cars that make "screaming noises."

Complaints have been made by citizens throughout the city to the Police Department that unnecessary noises disturb their sleep. A general campaign for the doing away with all summer disturbances has been launched. The police have been ordered to maintain quiet throughout the nights. Midnight revellers are no longer permitted to sing, whistle or make any demonstration whatsoever.

American trade in Abyssinia is being revived, according to dispatches received at the State Department from Consul Guy R. Taylor, at Addis Ababa. The consul reports the closing of contracts for the sale of cotton sheetings to the value of $750,000 by the representatives of American exporters. The goods will be sent in shipments extending over a period of three years.

Another American firm recently opened agencies at Dire Dawa, Harar, and Addis Ababa, Consul Taylor reports. The company will buy Abyssinian skins and hides, and sell American cotton sheetings.

The United States once possessed a large share of the Abyssinian trade. In recent years, however, it has been declining in favor of European exporters, who have seen in the business with more energy than American exporters.

Through the American Red Cross, the United States is preparing to enable China to prevent a recurrence of floods in the Hwai river valley, which were responsible for the terrible famine of last winter, in which hundreds of thousands of people died of starvation and disease.

For this purpose the Red Cross has offered to the Chinese government the services of an engineer, who will draw up plans for building canals and dikes which should protect the country from future floods. This offer has been accepted with thanks by China.

The man engaged by the Red Cross to be Charles D. Johnson, who has in sixteen years of experience as an engineer in China, having been engaged on work for the American Legation, Harar, Chinese foreign office and a British syndicate. He is a graduate of Harvard and has been a professor in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the head of the engineering department of Iowa University. He is particularly familiar with the country in the region of the Hwai.

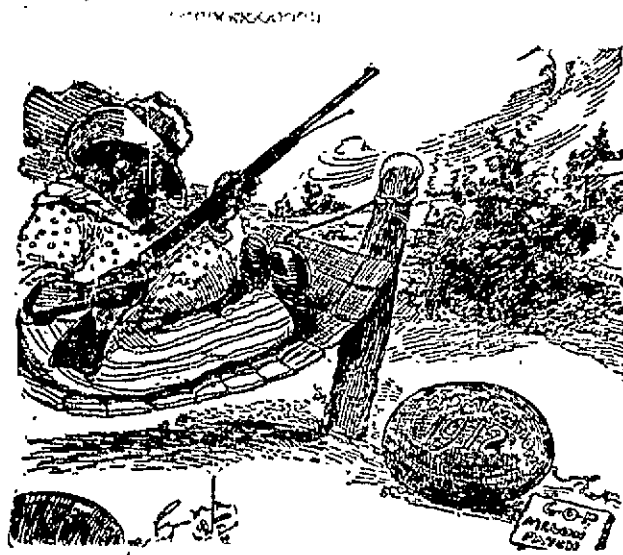

During the famine, the United States, through the Red Cross, has sent more than $250,000 to relieve the suffering of the famine victims.

See the government: It is the government of the United States of America, a great nation. Is it a wise government? Well, that depends upon the point of view. This is what the government does:

It is announced in official orders that a board of army officers consisting of two captains and a lieutenant colonel, shall meet in Washington and examine a horse and rider to decide whether or not one wants to sell a horse to the government, and before Uncle Sam can purchase it, its worth must be solemnly passed upon by an army board.

It is estimated that the officers assigned to this board will consume the greater part of one day in performing this duty. Two captains at $2,400 a year, and a lieutenant colonel at $3,000 a year, make a total of $5,400 a year in salaries represented in this board.

In other words it is to cost the United States government the services of three officers for one day, or not over $27, to decide whether or not a horse is worth the price which he paid for said horse, with the possibility of saving Uncle Sam ten or fifteen dollars on the purchase price.

NEWS OF A DAY IN SCOTSDALE.

The Sister Town of Everson to Have a Swimming Pool

IN THE NEAR FUTURE

F. E. Leitzell Buys the Arcade Moving Picture House—W. J. Barkell Planning European Trip For Sake of Health—Personal Notes.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, July 11.—The Tyrone Club, Everson's well known men's social organization, will install a swimming pool in the basement of their club house, and thus rank with the best athletic clubs of the country. A committee consisting of F. W. Byrne, Daniel O'Brien and Carl Pritchard have made an inspection of the swimming pool at Leavenworth and have reported back favorably to the club, recommending the addition of a pool
to the Everson club house.

The Tyrone Club was organized about eight years ago and owns a large 60x90 foot building on the main street of Everson. The first floor is occupied by stores, the Everson postoffice and a barber shop and the club has been so prosperous that they have every year added some new thing to their equipment.

The second floor is occupied by the well equipped gymnasium, the club rooms handsomely furnished and a hall 40x50 feet in dimensions. The organization is a strictly temperance one in every particular and has no political, the regulations for membership being that the applicant be a man of clean character. There are about 60 men of the community belong to it.

If the finances of the club permit, the swimming pool will be built this year and opened this fall, and if finances are not sufficiently adequate now the pool will be installed next spring.

Buy the Arcade.
F. E. Leitzell, formerly a jeweler of this place, has bought the Arcade, the moving picture house at Pittsburg and Spring streets, from Clayburgh Bros., who have conducted it for a number of years. The house is a well patronized one, and is in a good location.

Going to Europe.
W. J. Barkell, the music dealer, who has been in ill health for some months, expects to sail from New York next Wednesday for a trip to England in the hope of recovering his health. He expects to be gone until about September.

the time condition on the H. C. Erick

Relief and Health for the Afflicted

Half sick, tired all the time, no energy or ambition, with your nerves on edge and your stomach out of order, how can you expect to get any happiness out of life when in such a miserable state?

You can't, and you won't, until you find relief from the debilitated condition that is sapping your vitality and robbing you of your strength.

Physicians know that half the population in the large cities of this country are today afflicted with nervous debility caused by the wear and tear of modern life.

A preparation has been used by European physicians to combat this nervous condition with remarkable success. A similar preparation "Tona Vita" was introduced in this country a few months ago and is making a marvelous record here. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of listless, debilitated men and women. You owe it to your family, you owe it to let this wonderful new tonic build you up. There is no other medicine like it on earth;
one dose will convince any one of this. If "Tona Vita" doesn't do more for you than all the other medicines you have ever taken if it doesn't make you happier and healthier and better in every way, what you pay for it will be returned to you by A. A. Clark.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative, the assistant remedy, is another great medicine.
It is a splendid family laxative, containing the medicinal properties of rhubarb—nature's own laxative. It will not injure the most delicate constitution and should be used for children above everything else. It is pleasant to the taste.

A. A. Clark has the Connellsville agency for "Tona Vita" and Lee's Rhubarb Laxative.

Tri-State Gets

latter company exclusively for the

HARBOR COMMITTEE

To inspect Rivers in the Pittsburg
District. Next Week.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Riv-

A VACATION IN BED.

Twenty-four Hours' Sleep Versus a Week's Holiday.

If you want to obtain complete rest and recuperation equal to a week's vacation in minimum time sleep the clock around twice is the advice of a physician who holds a high place in medical circles in England.

"To spend twenty-four hours in bed," he said to a friend, "instead of rushing away for a few hours' change of scene when you are run down physically and mentally, is worth a week's holiday.
The night before, having gone to a theater to take the mind off worries and having supped wisely and well, instructions should be given that the morning calling shall be omitted.

"Then sleep. On waking turn over and sleep again. On waking again ring for some hot milk. Drink it and sleep again and keep on sleeping. Have nothing in the intervals more substantial than soup. Do not read. Keep the eyes shut constantly. Have a warm bath in the evening and sleep again.

"When you are tired of sleeping sleep again for the night. Nothing calms the nerves more than resting the eyes."—New York Herald.

The SKY PIRATE

by GARRETT P. SERVISS.

CHAPTER XX.

THE LAST OF THE SKY PIRATE.

W E found Susan on the rocks in an agony of terror and anxiety. When she saw her mistress she burst into tears. The three of us were half-famished, but our wants were soon supplied from the stores of the Crow.

We waited until daylight to begin the search for Payton, and in the meantime, with the aid of our lights, I found and overhauled the Chameleon. The effect of our fire had been terrific, and I more than ever wondered that she had not fallen in a heap from the clouds. All of her aeroplanes were more or less smashed up, and the deck had suffered, but the cabins were comparatively unharmed, Ethan having taken pains to save them as much as possible, knowing that the prisoners would be in that part of the ship.

Now I found the various colored "mills" of which I have spoken. They consisted of soft, fluffy material and were most ingeniously contrived to be drawn quickly over the aeroplanes. I may say here that they were the origin of the "downs" now universally employed on aeroplanes to cover the gliding parts, it having been found that in this way an approximation to the feather covering of birds is obtained, thus increasing the buoyancy and directive facility of the machine.

"So that's the way the varmint played possum, is it?" said Ethan when he saw these suits. "Well, she'll not turn grasshopper nor blue, white nor black butterfly again, I'll allow."

Having selected from the stores of the Chameleon such things as would be of use to us and having found some of her bombs, I had her blown up, and we returned to the rocks.

It was now 4 o'clock. The sun was setting over the horizon, and it was time to run down our quarry. I cared little about the two men. They might escape, and welcome, if only I could capture the pirate himself. I meant to keep after him a week or ten days, if necessary, and for that purpose I had taken possession of the unused batteries of the Chameleon, which sufficed to replace all that the Crow had exhausted up to this time.

The three men who had been left at the scene of the last night's adventure had arrived at the rocks, bringing along their wounded comrades, who were seriously shot through the breast. They also brought Payton's pack of provisions, which had been left on the ground. This delighted me exceedingly, for it vastly increased the chances of his capture.

I had, including myself and Peters, ten available men. I decided to leave Peters and four men at the rocks, with plenty of provisions, and one of the electric guns, placing Helen in their charge until the arrival of the party from the Osprey or until my return.

I directed Peters to keep a dog flying, for I felt confident that our friends would soon come, and probably with the aero, since my engineer had assured Peters that he could repair the steering gear.

For the search, my idea was to rise to a good height with the Crow and start off ostentatiously southward, in order that Payton, if he were watching, as he doubtless would be, might conclude that we were satisfied with the recovery of Miss Gryman and were making for home. When to use an old nautical phrase, we should be "hull down" from the rocks I meant to put about going round by the east to northeast and keeping full fifty miles beyond the point where Payton had escaped.

Then I would drop down near the ground and search to the left and left over a breadth of at least fifteen miles, creeping gradually inward toward the critical point. Since he was compelled to travel on foot I did not believe that Payton had been able to go anything like fifty miles over the brush tangled and more or less swampy ground. But I wanted to be sure.

So off I started, after a tender parting from Helen, whom I encouraged with the hope of soon seeing her father and to whom I had related all the particulars of the manner in which we had found Payton's lodge and of our adventures up to the time of the battle in the clouds. She in turn gave me a vivid description of her experiences on the Chameleon, where she and Susan had been kept locked in the cabin most of the time. Once or twice only they had witnessed the chase.

"That I did not know who my rescuer was to be," she said, smiling archly.

could usually see fairly well, and when we came upon thickets or clumps of stunted trees I ordered Ethan to drop shells into them, an employment that afforded him great satisfaction.

"This beats con hunting in Connecticut all hollows," he said. "When I was a youngster we used to shoot up into the trees where the varmints was hid, but if we couldn't get 'em this way there wouldn't be been a ringer left in the hall state."

But as the time wore on and we got nearer where I expected Payton to be I stopped the firing lest the explosion of the shells should give the alarm. I now determined to resort to the device which had twice already proved so effective—that of looking out for a light after night came on. The nights were cold, and if Payton believed that we had gone off southward he would build a fire, both for warmth and for cooking.

It was after midnight before our vigilance was rewarded. Ethan touched me on the arm as we stood together beside the run in the bow and whispered, "There's the kilt, lookant."

"Sure enough, not 200 rods away, a faint gleam showed on the trunk of an unusually tall pine, surrounded with bushes. Instantly I brought the Crow to a hover.

"Shall I send him a shell?" asked Ethan eagerly, swinging the gun to aim.

"Not yet," I whispered. "Wait, creep a little nearer. I want to be sure. I shouldn't care to kill innocent men, although I suppose there is not one chance in a thousand of any rascals or hunters being hereabouts."

Moving with extreme caution just above the tops of the brushwood, we silently drew nearer. Presently the fire began to show in gleams through the mass of twigs and foliage, and quite suddenly we came in line with an opening through which the whole camp was visible as through a window.

A birch log was burning brightly, and over it bent a man busy with cooking a piece of meat held on the point of a stick. The flames lent a redder tint to the dark countenance of Indian John.

A couple of yards back of the fire and so seated that his face was fully illuminated sat Alfonso Payton. The glare of the fire in his eyes would have prevented him from seeing us if he had looked up, but from our side we could make out his every feature.

Never in my life have I been so struck by a human countenance. It was a face in which beauty, malignity, dignity, intelligence, impudence, self-mastery, courage, strength, seemed equally blended. There was nothing repulsive or wicked about it.

"My God, what fine men's faces can be!" I thought.

Ethan, who was less impressionable, begged me in a whisper to let him blow him to pieces with a shell.

"No!" I returned forcefully. "I forbid it absolutely!"

In the energy of my refusal my voice rose too high, and Payton heard the sound. Instantly he stood erect, and his eyes peered straight at the Crow. But the fire blinded him, and he did not see us.

"Crouch!" I whispered in Ethan's ear, "and lie still!"

Payton stepped quickly round on our side of the fire. The Indian dropped his stunted tree and turned to look. Then he vanished.

"Speeded, by Jingo!" exclaimed Ethan.

Which way had they gone? Probably directly ahead, because only in that direction would they have the continued shelter of the brush. This extended away in a comparatively narrow belt as far as we could see, and it was unusually thick and tall. I ordered the steersman to skim close above it at a speed a little exceeding that of a good runner. But when we had advanced nearly as far as I thought that the fugitives could have gone we stopped and hovered, carefully watching and listening. But there was no movement and no sound.

The brush, intermingled with a few stunted trees, extended as I have said, in a belt which was not more than ten rods broad, but apparently interminable toward the southwest. I made up my mind that it followed the course of a sluggish stream or a chain of swamps. On either side of it lay a stretch of bare country, and the moon, now rising, began to illumine this sufficiently to have enabled us to see any object as large as a man moving across it.

I determined to "beat" this belt thoroughly, keeping so close to the top of the bushes that the fugitives would not dare attempt to dodge back behind us.

It was slow, tedious, nerve-racking work as we swept from side to side, but doggedly I kept at it, confident that the quarry would be driven on ahead.

I now looked for daylight, and at last it came. In a short time the sky became bright, and we could see the ground through the brush. Glancing ahead, I was delighted to perceive that within a short distance the belt ran out, ending in an open country.

Suddenly a shot rang from the bushes a little in advance, and the rifeman at my side fell dead without a groan. Another shot followed, and I felt a sting in my right shoulder. A third flattened on the muzzle of Ethan's gun. They were at bay and in ambush.

"Fire, Ethan—fire!" I shouted. His gun belched its blue flame, and the shell exploded in a clump of bushes directly ahead and so close to us that some of the fragments flew back and struck the aero. He had fired at the point from which he guessed that the shots had come, and evidently his judgment had been good, for we saw the bushes moving violently as if some one were running through them. In a minute we sailed directly over the spot where the shell had struck, and, looking down, I saw the Indian expiring on the ground. But Payton had again escaped.

"Speed ahead!" I called.

But now came a provoking accident. We had been sailing so close to the bushes that some of them had become entangled with our aeroplanes, and the shock threw us all from our feet. We were dazed perhaps fifteen minutes. Then we rose about twenty yards and forged ahead. I now saw the termination of the belt of brush, and, looking beyond it, beheld the fugitive, who had got upon a high rock and was awaiting us, rifle in hand.

Payton was making his last stand and doing it in his own manner. He made not the slightest attempt at concealment, but coolly brought his weapon to his shoulder as we approached. His hat had fallen off, and his dark hair was waving in the morning breeze.

His situation was not so desperate as it may seem. I could not call off either my steersman or my engineer from his work, and I myself could not on account of my wound handle my rifle. But Ethan was there with him, and that, after all, gave us an immense advantage, to say nothing of the mobility of the aero. But if he should shoot down the steersman we should be in a fix.

"Ethan, it depends upon you," I said. The gunner took a quick sight and fired. The shell hit the rock and exploded with a fearful report. When the smoke cleared away Payton was gone. We cautiously approached the rock, but could see nothing of his body. Then we got down and searched, but in vain. I could not believe that he had got away, although the lodge and what was the mystery, of the digging in the woods. The lodge we set on fire—a vandal's act, perhaps—but we did not want it to remain as a possible lurking place for Payton's crew. Mrs. Williams turned out to be a well-known woman to the New York detective, but as no overt act was proved against her she was allowed to go.

The "grave of the bear" was the last resting place of one of Payton's victims, possibly the "Mr. Green" that he had spoken of, but he was never identified. Other ghastly discoveries were made in the woods about the lodge, but no buried treasure was found.

That I "had my reward" and that it was an ample one my happy life with Helen has abundantly demonstrated.

His Special Brand.
"Speaking of scientists," said a college professor, "there was an eminent Scotch scientist whose especial delight—mania, in fact—was insects and bugs. There once visited this Scotch professor a young scientist. The visitor remained overnight, and in the morning his host said to him:

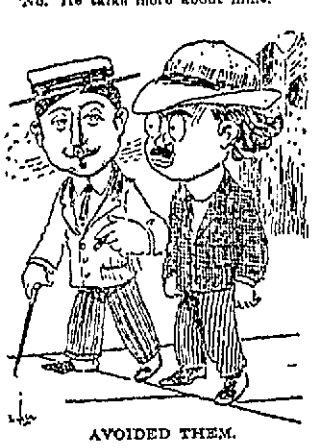

"And how did ye sleep the night?"
"Not very well," the visitor answered. "It was the strange bed, perhaps, but I must confess—"

"Ah," said the professor encouragingly, "ye were just bitten by something, eh?"
"Well, to tell you the truth, professor, I was," the visitor admitted.

"Just think of that!" cried the professor. "Bitten, was ye? No, man, can ye say it was anything at all noteworthy that bit ye?"
"Fleas, I think," said the other. "But such fleas for biting I never met in my life before."

WIFE'S IDEA.
"Does your husband talk much about his mother's cooking?"
"No. He talks more about mine."

AVOIDED THEM.
"Are you going to the theater tonight?"
"The performance is said to be very artistic."

WHAT'S THE USE?
"You and your husband never quarrel?"
"No. When they say a thing in a 'highly artistic' it is usually unpleasant and tiresome."

AN ACORN SPLIT A BOWLDER.
At El Portal, near the entrance to the Yosemite National park, in California, is a remarkable example of the wonderful strength of the roots of a growing tree. A live oak in some manner started its growth years ago in a small crevice in the upper side of a large sandstone rock, where possibly a little soil had lodged, and the tender sprig grew into a sapling. Now, after years of growth, it is a tree of considerable size, and the roots, pushing down through the sandstone boulder, have caused the mass to split apart. The tree is still growing, and the roots are gradually pushing the fragments of the immense rock farther and farther apart each year. Roots of forest trees have been known to lift great ledges of rock, splitting them off from the main vein. Shade trees in cities have been known to lift sidewalks, paved streets and heavy, deep set curbstones, and in a few cases roots have found their way into cellars and moved the foundations of dwellings.

What Ails You?
Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heart-burn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach growl or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at these will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of native American medicinal forest plants. Canes and Swords in Porto Rico.
Of all people perhaps none are more fond of canes or more skilled in their use than our fellow citizens of Porto Rico. The walking stick in that island would seem to mark social distinctions among men as fans do among women. Every Spaniard has a cane, the well-to-do own several, and the glided youth often have a small arsenal of walking sticks. The term "arsenal" is used advisedly, as the Porto Ricans, like the Spaniards, have quite a fondness for sword canes and dagger canes, and they make these with remarkable skill. The blades of the finer specimens come from famous smiths in Toledo and other Spanish cities and are forged from the finest steel. Some are damascened, and others are inlaid with silver and gold; some have worked upon them the name of the owner and others the name of a patron saint—Philadelphia Record.

Not Just What She Meant.
A little community of colored people had raised the money to build a new church, and the dedication was to take place the next day. "Where are you going tomorrow?" the school-teacher asked one young girl. Smiling radiantly, she answered, "It's going to the degradation of our church!"

The Real Sorrow.
"Did your operation cost you much pain?"
"Yes, but I didn't mind that so much as the dollars it cost."—Baltimore American.
